

Miami Business Services, LLC

Companies today are under tremendous pressure to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of their overall supply chain performance including better asset visibility and inventory controls. Current market conditions and an increasingly uncertain economic environment force businesses to do more with less, while customer demands for faster and ever more reliable service delivery.

Fundamental changes are necessary to transform the way your company does business. But if you let technology drive your business process improvement efforts, the path to transformation will be extremely difficult.

Customer-Focused Approach

MBS views the Supply Chain from an overall perspective. We align people, process and technology to open the flow of information from systems across organizations and between enterprises. Leveraging our thought leadership and years of experience, we provide comprehensive solutions.

MBS captures the full potential of the best practices and cost-effective technologies. These capabilities along with business processes help your company adapt and respond with agility to increasing demands and continually changing requirements. We incorporate the capabilities of hardware and software to help design and deliver optimized solutions while considering the impact on people and business processes. MBS has the business acumen, SMEs, operational expertise and technical ability needed to increase asset and inventory visibility and control toward helping improve decision making, increase productivity and performance.

MBS' management and subject matter experts support the following core services:

- Construction

Strategic Thinking

The process begins by understanding your business improvement objectives. Together, we envision what your supply chain solution will entail and its impact on your business operations. This process helps uncover inefficiencies and limitations in existing business processes and then pinpoints areas for improvement.

Systematic Approach

Our approach combines industry knowledge with proven tools and techniques to deliver significant value and return on your investment.

Strategy

Solution

Implement

MBS' approach drives strategic execution and increased business value:

- Enhanced solution delivery capability
- Captures real benefits of supply chain technologies and capabilities

Our approach provides an evaluation of a client's supply chain focused on identifying:

- Short-term tactical improvements that drive "Quick Hit" bottom-line results
- Alignment with long term strategic initiatives which position our client for real competitive advantage and profitable growth.

This approach provides a current performance baseline of your supply chain. It develops future scenarios and roadmaps for cost savings and revenue growth that position your organization to capture your desired goals.
